AT THE BUS

"Do you have hands? Excellent. That's a good start. Can you hold a pencil? Great. If you have a sketchbook, open it and start by making a line, a mark, wherever. Doodle!"

Chris Riddell,
illustrator

tips for doodling

- ★ try listening to music while you are drawing
- ★ find a comfy space to sit while you are drawing or try drawing standing up
- ★ have a snack before you start!

creative heads

We are going to doodle creative hair on a face.

You can choose to do your own head (a self-portrait) or you can draw another person to give hair to!

You can decide to do your doodles in black and white or add colour - it's up to you.

Doodling can be a good way to relax. It can help you to think and feel in a different way.

Doodling can be good for processing emotions and it can light up different pathways in your brain to open up more creativity.

Because you often create patterns and repeated shapes when you doodle, the repetition can ease stress. It really helps if you don't worry about making mistakes and enjoy your 'happy accidents'!

CREATE

- 1 Get a piece of paper for your drawing - plain A4 paper is good, or you can use whatever you can find (the inside of a cereal box, for example).
- 2 Draw a simple outline face on the paper. You can choose what expression to give the face, and how much detail to add.
- 3 Now begin doodling in the hair. Start by drawing a few longer lines coming out from the head, then begin filling in the sections with different patterns.

did you know?

Before he was famous, the artist Picasso sometimes doodled on napkins in cafes to pay for his meals.
